Art Unit: 1637

- 1. Claim 15 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The recitation of "means for determining the presence of the nucleic acid molecule of claim 1" is vague and indefinite because such means are not clearly defined. While this claim appears to invoke "means plus function" language according to 35 U.S.C. 112, 6th paragraph, it cannot be determined from the specification what means are contemplated.
- 2. With respect to the above rejection, the arguments of the response filed 04/16/04 on pages 16-17 have been fully considered, but are not found persuasive. While the response points to pages 95 and 96 for support of the claim language, it is maintained that these general descriptions of various methodologies do not in fact define any "means" which can be understood by one or ordinary skill in the art, nor is there any basis for searching the prior art for such unclear "means". Thus, the rejection is maintained.
- 3. Claims 1, 2, 4, 5, 7-9, 15, and 18-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

This rejection applies to the claims insofar as the embodiments in claim 1 of (c) and (d); that is, nucleic acids which: have at least 80% sequence identity over their entire length to the nucleic acid molecule of (a) or (b), and hybridize under stringent conditions to said molecule.

Art Unit: 1637

Although the specification only discloses the sequence of SEQ ID NO:65 or 66, these embodiments cover a large genus of related nucleic acids which are not described and were not in applicant's possession. Included in this genus are any number of nucleic acids which have sequence homology with SEQ ID NO:65 or 66, but nonetheless have substantially different and unpredictable properties, such as encoding a polypeptide of substantially or completely different biological function. Thus, the specification does not have written descriptive support for the large genus as set forth in parts (c) and (d) of claim 1.

With respect to the above rejection, the arguments of the response filed 04/16/04 on 4. pages 18-20 have been fully considered, but are not found persuasive. The response argues that "upon discovery of the instant claimed nucleic acid sequence...and its expression, applicants were clearly in possession of additional nucleic acid sequences identified in accordance with routine procedures based upon this reference sequence. Further, the instant specification and its teachings clearly place the public in possession of these sequences as well." However, the Office does not agree with this position; it appears that the arguments of the response might be applicable in the case of 112, 1st paragraph enablement considerations, but the issue at hand concerns written description and possession at the time of filing. Contrary to the conclusion of the response, it is maintained that applicants were only in possession of the nucleic acid of SEQ ID NO:65 or 66 and nucleic acids encoding the same amino acid sequence (SEQ ID NO:167) at filing. While in some cases it may be possible to claim a nucleic acid more broadly than a single disclosed species given a certain degree of identity or hybridization conditions and a function, in the instant case no appropriate function is identified.

- 5. Claims 1, 2, 4, 5, 7-9, 15, and 18-20 are free of the prior art, but are rejected for other reasons. No claims are allowable.
- 6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
